PRISONERS AT FOLSOM PRISON, CAL., SURRENDER

7 RINGLEADERS STARTING JAIL
BREAK PLACED IN SOLITARY CONFINEMENT

CONVICTS DEFIED PRISON AUTH-ORITY FOR TWENTY HOURS

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Folsom Prison, Cal., Nov. 25.—Six of the seven prisoners who, led by Anthony Brown, 28-year-old San Francisco thug, precipitated an attempted prison break, which resulted in 11 men being killed and 21 wounded, were identified here today and were placed in solitary confinement.

Brown will be charged with assault to commit murder and the others with conspiracy to commit murder, according to Neal McAlister, district attorney of Sacramento county. Conviction on either carries the death penalty.

Brown was serving a sentence of 15 years from San Francisco for robbery.

Folsom Prison, Cal., Nov. 25.—The regular routine of Folsom prison was resumed here today when 1,200 prisoners, who had defied prison officials for 20 hours, surrendered peacefully and were returned to their cells.

The seven ringleaders who started the break which caused the deaths of 11 men and injury to 21 more, were placed in solitary confinement. Their names were not divulged.

The casualties included:

Ray Singleton, guard, killed by the convicts.

Charles Giles, aged gatekeeper, died of a heart attack.

Charles Gorhamson, guard, seriously stabbed and may die.

Walter Neil, turnkey, stabbed and shot in the leg.

Al Dealy, guard, stabbed.

Barnet Hughes, secretary to the warden, shot in the leg.

Six convicts were found to be dead by Dr. J. P. Day, prison surgeon, when he entered the cell block under attack. He reported that three prisoners had been fatally shot and 17 others wounded.

The body of John Brown, convict, was found after the prisoners had returned to their cells. It was not known before he was killed. Lewis Reposa, one of the two men whom Dr. Ray reported as dying, died at noon.

It was thought at first that Dr. Day was included in a number of prison guards and officials held in the hospital.

It was found later, however, that he had been allowed to return from the cell block without injury.

The others were returned to their regular cells and Warden Court Smith announced that the daily routine would begin as if nothing had occurred.

One gun and a half dozen knives claimed by the prisoners to be all the weapons the prisoners had, were taken in charge by Warden Smith, who entered the cell house alone by a rear door, while hundreds of militiamen armed with rifles and machine guns formed a cordon around the building.

Everything was ominously quiet as the final surrender took place. The sun was peeking dimly through a light bank of clouds to the east. There was no shouting of military orders. The atmosphere was as calm as it had been riotous when the break was made shortly before noon yesterday.

Warden Smith was pale from his long vigil and was firm but reasonable in his parley with the prisoners. He was seated in his cottage when the besieged prisoners within the walls first called him on the telephone. They first demanded immunity.

"You will all be given a fair trial under the laws of California," he replied. "You know that any promise of immunity which I might make would be worthless because I have no such power."

He gave them a half hour to make up their minds to surrender before the cell house would be attacked by machine guns and tanks. Shortly before the time was up the telephone rang a second time and the convicts announced their unconditional surrender.

The warden went at once to the cell block and met the four guards who had been held prisoner. All

TAKES 4,000 FOOT DIVE IN AIRPLANE TO CURE DEAFNESS

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Although he still is deaf after a 4,000-foot dive in an airplane Wednesday, Arthur Alexson, Brule, Wis., said today that continuous head pains since the sensational drop were favorable indications that his hearing might be restored.

The unique treatment for Alexson's affliction was prescribed by an army officer friend.

BOMBING AND GANG MURDER FOLLOW IN CHICAGO

ADDED TO LIST OF GANGSTER
ATROCITIES

Chicago, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—A bombing and a gang murder had been added today to the list of Chicago gangster atrocities, but whether they had any direct connection with the Capone-Allelo feud for control of gambling syndicate rights was considered doubtful.

A black powder bomb damaged a six-apartment building in which Peter J. and Joseph Spingola live. Peter Spingola is a prominent figure on Chicago republican politics, and it was believed the bombing might have been intended as punishment by the gangs because he refused to use his political influence in their behalf. Neither of the Spingolas ever has been linked with gangster activities, although a sister married Angelo Genna, a member of a leading family of gunmen, a few years ago.

Arthur Hartz was found shot to death in a suburb yesterday. His fiancée, Marie Wallace, told police she believed he had been killed by alcohol runners because he planned to become a prohibition agent. Police said he had himself been a dealer in alcohol and they suspected him of hi-jacking activities.

The Capone-Allelo fight seemed to have simmered down under police surveillance, but Capone gunmen were understood to be keeping a close watch for Allelo, who has been in retirement since the collapse of his plot to assassinate Capone and disrupt his control over gambling.

WILLMAR TO DEDICATE NEW ELKS HOME

The dedication ceremonies will be preceded by a banquet at the Lakeland hotel.

He then went to the old cell house which had been a hell house for nearly a day, and procured the weapons. The prisoners followed him quietly and marched to their cells.

Although the names of the seven desperadoes who were the ringleaders were not announced, it was believed at the prison that three of them were Red Shannon, under sentence of death; "Jew" Webber, and Tony Brown, who are accused of the murder of Guard Singleton by an underground leak from the prisoners.

As the mutiny ended, the prison grounds resembled a field of battle. The soldiers with the rifles, machine guns, trucks and cannon; the ambulances and the hospital outfits; the fire apparatus which was held in readiness should the prisoners fire the building. The telephone crews, with trucks and equipment ready to string emergency lines should the regular lines be cut—all lent to the picture a military tinge.

Inside the cell house the air was even more tense. The prisoners were very nervous. They were silent as the guards passed up and down the rows checking off each man to see that none is hidden away.

The militia companies prepared to depart and it was believed that within a few hours the Folsom prison episode would be only a matter of caring for the wounded, burying the dead and prosecuting the guilty.

HENRY FORD DESIGNED PART OF NEW CAR

TURNED OUT CONSTRUCTION WORK IN HIS PRIVATE WORKSHOP

HAMMOND TIMES OF INDIANA
PRINTS NEWS STORY

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Henry Ford, whose original model "T" car was the product of his own hands, has designed part of the new Ford in his private workshop. The Hammond Times said in a story revealing that the 1928 model is being shipped dealers.

The story said enough of the new Fords would be run off the assembly line to permit simultaneous display by all dealers in the United States on or about Dec. 2, when the first official showing will take place in England with the opening of the British Automobile Show.

"The car," The Times continued, "is equipped with four-wheel, internal expanding brakes designed by Henry Ford in his private workshop. Service or emergency brakes are on the rear wheels and are external contracting, actuated by a hand-lever.

"The motor, contrary to expectations, is not a small bore, long stroke of the high speed, high compression type, but is an even larger motor than that of the old model 'T.' It has four cylinders with a bore of 3 7/8 inches and a stroke of 4 1/4.

"With a cubic displacement of approximately 210 inches against 186 in the Model T, it will have a rating of about 23 horsepower and develop from 45 to 48 horsepower on a brake test."

Carefully concealed from public view, the new Ford is coming from the assembly line at the Hageswisch plant of the Ford Motor Company and was inspected by Calumet region dealers, about 50 dealers from Chicago and a score of agents from elsewhere.

Detroit, Nov. 25.—The greatest period of consumption in the history of the automobile business lies directly ahead, Henry Ford predicted here in announcing Dec. 2, as the date for the first public showing of his new car at all Ford sales agencies in the United States, Canada and England.

"National wealth is increasing," Ford's statement said. "Individuals have more money. Taxes are on the decrease and government economy has made for better business in all lines.

"People buy when they have money. They become cautious only when money becomes scarce. Money is not scarce today nor will it become so next year, in my opinion.

"The outlook for 1928 is simply a matter of production. Production means consumption of materials and labor. All production in this country either is holding its own or increasing and I believe it will continue to increase."

Ford stated that he planned to spend nearly $800,000,000 in 1928 for labor and materials on the new "Model A." He revealed that 70,000 men were employed in his Detroit plant at present, drawing more pay than 94,999 did at the height of production on the Model T.

Capacity production in the 33 Ford assembly plants will begin shortly after January first, he said.

FOUND HANGED WITH CHAIN BLOCK AND TACKLE IN GARAGE

Minneapolis, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Alexander Martin, 36, Robbinsdale, was found dead in the Franklin garage here early today. He was found hanged with a chain block and tackle. Martin is survived by his widow and six children. A verdict of suicide was given by the coroner.

TIDAL WAVE FOLLOWS QUAKE IN SOUTHERN CHILE

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Reports from the region of the river Aysen, in southern Chile, today said a tidal wave following a strong earthquake had destroyed the small port of Perez Rosales. The tidal wave was of such violence that vessels in the harbor were hundreds of feet inland. Trees were uprooted and carried inland with the impact of the water. No report of casualties has been received, but it is known that a number of sailors were aboard ships in the vicinity.

POLITICAL SITUATION TENSE IN ROUMANIA

TROOPS PATROL BUCHAREST AS BODY OF FORMER PREMIER
LIES IN STATE

BRATIANU CREDITED WITH MAK-ING 6-YEAR-OLD MICHAEL KING

Bucharest, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—While troops patrolled the streets today, the body of former Premier Ion Bratianu, the man who was credited with making six-year-old Michael king of Roumania, will lay in state today in the Athenaeum.

The political situation became tense with the death of the former premier who opposed the former Crown Prince Carol's attempt to reconcile his parents to his rights to the throne of Roumania.

Carol gave up his rights to the kingship when he refused to return to Roumania and his wife, the Princess Helen. Since then he has been living in Paris with Mme. Lupescu.

Just when the opposition to the premier was rising to new heights in favor of Carol, Premier Bratianu died yesterday. His death was sudden and the army was mobilized before the country realized he was dead. The army was reported loyal to King Michael.

The regency over King Michael was entrenched firmly today and indications were that neither party would strive for an ascendancy until the late premier was buried and the parliament passed the budget required for the new government. Bratianu's brother has been appointed premier by the regency.

A coalition cabinet of Bratianu supporters and members of the opposition parties was expected to be formed soon.

Any disturbances or disorders might be converted with little effort into an attempt for Carol's ascendancy to the throne.

EXPECT TO FIND CAR IN RIVER

ANOTHER MYSTERY CONFRONTS
AUTHORITIES OF ST.
PAUL

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—City and county authorities continued today to probe an apparent mystery which may lead to the discovery of an automobile in the icy waters of the Mississippi river near Hartford street.

Tracks of an automobile at the top of a cliff, freshly broken tree tops on the slope of the river, and a newly frozen patch of ice gave indications Thursday that an automobile had plunged into the water.

Police yesterday questioned scores of persons living in the neighborhood but nothing bearing on the case was learned, they said last night.

The river at the point of interest is about 20 feet deep.

GOVERNOR ADAMS DECLARES STATE OF INSURRECTION

AUTHORITIES TO POST COPIES OF
MILITARY ORDER ISSUED

DEATHS OF 5 MINERS IN CLASH
WITH STATE POLICE PRE-CIPITATED ACTION

Denver, Colo., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Officers of the Colorado national guard today were investigating mass movement of southern Colorado miners and I. W. W. sympathizers from other districts in the northern coal strike area.

Hundreds of outside sympathizers already were in the north field and others were reported on their way, guard officials said. These authorities planned to post copies of the military order issued by Governor William H. Adams last Monday declaring a state of insurrection to exist following the deaths of five miners in a clash with state police.

Despite an appeal to southern Colorado miners to stay in their own district, sympathizers have poured into northern Colorado for the funerals of men killed in the Columbine clash.

Approximately 3,000 persons attended services for Nick Spanudak his yesterday.

Officers were investigating reports that 1,000 more men, many of them rumored to be armed, were due in the field tomorrow. More than 4,000 strikers and sympathizers already are in the area, military authorities estimated.

Double funeral services for George Kovitch and Jerry Davis in Lafayette today were expected to attract large crowds of strike sympathizers.

DIVIDES ATTENTION BETWEEN HUSBAND AND SCHOOL BOOKS

Girard, Kansas, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Josephine Haldemann-Julius Roselle today divided her attention between her husband-companion, Aubrey Roselle and her school books.

For Mrs. Roselle—as she is legally known, although she intends to retain her maiden name—must return to high school Monday, and there are lessons to get.

The daughter of the Kansas publisher went to her father's home yesterday for a Thanksgiving dinner, following a two-day honeymoon at Joplin, Mo. The companionate marriage of the two appeared to be a great success, for both beamed with happiness. They refused to see motion picture photographers, who stormed the bride's home, and spent part of the day reading telegrams and letters congratulating them on their daring marriage experiment.

Among the messages was a letter from Judge Ben Lindsey, Denver, Colo., who sponsored the companionate marriage theory.

Dancing May Be One of the Hazardous Occupations

Minneapolis, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Dancing here may be listed among hazardous occupations.

Mrs. Helen Brinkham was showing some friends a few new steps after yesterday's Thanksgiving dinner.

She fell.

Today friends are sending best wishes and flowers to a hospital, where Mrs. Brinkham is having a broken leg attended.

ANGERED BY WIFE'S SUIT, MAN KILLS 2 STEPSONS, SELF

Painesville, O., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Angered by his wife's suit for divorce, Peter McCrory today went to her home, killed two of his stepsons, wounded his son, and then shot himself.

The dead are McCrory; Fred Cook, 29; Alex Cook, 26.

Arthur McCrory was wounded in protecting his stepmother from his father.

STEP-DAUGHTER TO TESTIFY AGAINST GEO. REMUS TODAY

SHELTERED IN PROSECUTOR'S OFFICE TAKING THE STAND

WILL BE STATE'S LAST WITNESS IN PRESENTATION OF ITS CASE

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Court Room, Cincinnati, O., Nov. 25.—Ruth Holmes Remus, 20-year-old step-daughter of George Remus, came today to the court house where she will testify against the man who seven weeks and one day ago shot and killed her mother.

The girl was not taken at once to the court room, where the largest crowd of Remus' trial on a first degree murder charge sought admittance, but was sheltered in a prosecutor's office before being called as the state's last witness in the presentation of its direct case.

Ruth was dressed in unrelieved black. She wore a wrap-around coat trimmed in monkey fur, and her smart, close-fitting hat covered most of her dark hair and shaded her tear-wet eyes.

While his step-daughter was preparing for the ordeal of describing to the jury how Mrs. Imogene Remus was slain, Remus himself was working on the case he will present after the state has rested.

A brief interruption came when a physician bound the thumb he wounded yesterday when, as he was opening a bundle of law books, a butcher knife slipped and inflicted a cut.

JAPANESE FREIGHTER IS STILL WALLOWING IN SHALLOW WATER

Aberdeen, Wash., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—The big Japanese freighter Tensaisan Maru, which went aground just north of Gray's harbor yesterday was still wallowing in the shallow waters near the mouth of the Copalis river early today.

A breeches buoy was rigged up Thursday afternoon, insuring a means of rescuing the crew of 43 persons. But the Japanese captain declined to abandon his craft.

The ship is not badly damaged, despite its dangerous position and the captain felt that he could await the arrival of tugs from Seattle and Victoria which were due here early today.

NICOLLET COUNTY ANNUAL POULTRY SHOW OPENING

St. Peter, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Nicollet county's annual poultry show, with the largest number of entries in three years on display, is in full swing today. The show opened Thursday with a record breaking crowd of visitors.

FOUND DEAD OF GAS POISONING WHERE WIFE DIED

St. Paul, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—In the same room where his wife met a similar death six weeks ago, Ferdinand Jacobovich, 60, was found dead from gas poisoning. A neighbor found Jacobovich's body when she investigated an odor of gas. The fumes were escaping from an unlighted heater.

OCTOBER, 1927 INCREASE OVER OCTOBER 1926

FINANCIAL REPORT OF RAILROAD
DISCLOSES ENCOURAGING
NEWS

BIG GAIN IN VOLUME OF NORTH-WEST GRAIN MOVING TO MARKET

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—The Northern Pacific railroad during October, 1927, showed a gain in new operating income of $871,849 over October, 1926, the financial report of the railroad today disclosed.

The total operating income for October this year was $4,568,504 as compared with $3,741,655 the same month last year.

The increase was largely the result of the big gain in the volume of northwest grain moving to market last month as compared with October, 1926, and its announcement follows on the heels of a report of a big gain in October revenue of the Soo Line, another major grain carrying railroad of the territory.

Wednesday the Soo Line reported net profits of $1,512,116 for October. Gross operating revenues of the Northern Pacific last month amounted to $11,515,225 as compared with $10,291,216 in October 1926, a gain of $1,224,009.

For the first 10 months of 1927, the net operating income of the Northern Pacific totalled $17,139,640 as compared with $19,314,329 in the corresponding period of 1926, a decline of $2,174,689.

SERVICE STATION ATTENDANT FIGHTS OFF BANDITS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Two men who attacked a garage attendant fled amid a hail of bullets early today, leaving a truck in which they had intended to haul alcohol.

They entered the Rice street service station, and asked Art Olson the price of alcohol for their radiator.

He replied that it was a dollar a gallon. One of the men said "too much," then leaped for Olson while the other seized a hammer and slugged him over the head.

Olson fought his way clear, drew a revolver, and fired. The men fled, while Olson continued to fire five shots. He said he could not tell if he hit either of his assailants, who deserted a truck in which they had driven to the service station.

RULING ON DOUBLE LIABILITY LAW

St. Paul, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—A company that explores for iron ore and which handles mining lands is not primarily a manufacturing business and its stockholders are responsible under the double liability law.

This was decided by the supreme court today in reversing Judge C. R. Magney of Duluth, who had held that the charter of the Scott Biever Iron Mining Co. allowed it to undertake other business than manufacturing. Peter Hicken, receiver, had brought suit against stockholders for a 50 per cent assessment, or $192,000. The supreme court today held that the company was liable under the double liability clause.

RANGE ROAD TAKES PAVING DISPUTE TO HIGHEST COURT

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—The Duluth and Iron Range railroad today informed the city of Duluth that the dispute over right of municipalities to assess railroad companies for paving or improving streets which abut or parallel railroad right of ways in Minnesota has been carried to the U. S. supreme court.

The state supreme court recently upheld the municipalities and the railroad notified the city that writ of error was filed in the highest court.

Carol gave up his rights to the kingship when he refused to return to Roumania and his wife, the Princess Helen. Since then he has been living in Paris with Mme. Lupescu. Just when the opposition to the premier was rising to new heights in favor of Carol, Premier Bratianu died yesterday. His death was sudden and the army was mobilized before the country realized he was dead. The army was reported loyal to King Michael.

The regency over King Michael was entrenched firmly today and indications were that neither party would strive for an ascendancy until the late premier was buried and the parliament passed the budget required for the new government. Bratianu's brother has been appointed premier by the regency.

A coalition cabinet of Bratianu supporters and members of the opposition parties was expected to be formed soon.

Any disturbances or disorders might be converted with little effort into an attempt for Carol's ascendancy to the throne.

EXPECT TO FIND CAR IN RIVER

ANOTHER MYSTERY CONFRONTS AUTHORITIES OF ST. PAUL

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—City and county authorities continued today to probe an apparent mystery which may lead to the discovery of an automobile in the icy waters of the Mississippi river near Hartford street.

Tracks of an automobile at the top of a cliff, freshly broken tree tops on the slope of the river, and a newly frozen patch of ice gave indications Thursday that an automobile had plunged into the water.

Police yesterday questioned scores of persons living in the neighborhood but nothing bearing on the case was learned, they said last night.

The river at the point of interest is about 20 feet deep.

GOVERNOR ADAMS DECLARES STATE OF INSURRECTION

AUTHORITIES TO POST COPIES OF MILITARY ORDER ISSUED

DEATHS OF 5 MINERS IN CLASH WITH STATE POLICE PRECIPITATED ACTION

Denver, Colo., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Officers of the Colorado national guard today were investigating mass movement of southern Colorado miners and I. W. W. sympathizers from other districts in the northern coal strike area.

Hundreds of outside sympathizers already were in the north field and others were reported on their way, guard officials said. These authorities planned to post copies of the military order issued by Governor William H. Adams last Monday declaring a state of insurrection to exist following the deaths of five miners in a clash with state police.

Despite an appeal to southern Colorado miners to stay in their own district, sympathizers have poured into northern Colorado for the funerals of men killed in the Columbine clash.

Approximately 3,000 persons attended services for Nick Spanudak yesterday.

Officers were investigating reports that 1,000 more men, many of them rumored to be armed, were due in the field tomorrow. More than 4,000 strikers and sympathizers already are in the area, military authorities estimated.

Double funeral services for George Kovitch and Jerry Davis in Lafayette late today were expected to attract large crowds of strike sympathizers.

DIVIDES ATTENTION BETWEEN HUSBAND AND SCHOOL BOOKS

Girard, Kansas, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Josephine Haldemann-Julius Roselle today divided her attention between her husband-companion, Aubrey Roselle and her school books.

For Mrs. Roselle—as she is legally known, although she intends to retain her maiden name—must return to high school Monday, and there are lessons to get.

The daughter of the Kansas publisher went to her father's home yesterday for a Thanksgiving dinner, following a two-day honeymoon at Joplin, Mo. The companionate marriage of the two appeared to be a great success, for both beamed with happiness. They refused to see motion picture photographers, who stormed the bride's home, and spent part of the day reading telegrams and letters congratulating them on their daring marriage experiment.

Among the messages was a letter from Judge Ben Lindsey, Denver, Colo., who sponsored the companionate marriage theory.

Dancing May Be One of the Hazardous Occupations

Minneapolis, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Dancing here may be listed among hazardous occupations.

Mrs. Helen Brinkham was showing some friends a few new steps after yesterday's Thanksgiving dinner.

She fell. Today friends are sending best wishes and flowers to a hospital, where Mrs. Brinkham is having a broken leg attended.

HEALTH SURVEY OF OWATONNA PUPILS

Owatonna, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—A health survey of the 600 pupils of the Owatonna junior-senior high school will be started December 1, school officials announced today.

ANGERED BY WIFE'S SUIT, MAN KILLS 2 STEPSONS, SELF

Painesville, O., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Angered by his wife's suit for divorce, Peter McCrory today went to her home, killed two of his stepsons, wounded his son, and then shot himself.

The dead are McCrory; Fred Cook, 29; Alex Cook, 26.

Arthur McCrory was wounded in protecting his stepmother from his father.

STEP-DAUGHTER TO TESTIFY AGAINST GEO. REMUS TODAY

SHELTERED IN PROSECUTOR'S OFFICE TAKING THE STAND

WILL BE STATE'S LAST WITNESS IN PRESENTATION OF ITS CASE

By PAUL W. WHITE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Court Room, Cincinnati, O., Nov. 25.—Ruth Holmes Remus, 20-year-old step-daughter of George Remus, came today to the court house where she will testify against the man who seven weeks and one day ago shot and killed her mother.

The girl was not taken at once to the court room, where the largest crowd of Remus' trial on a first-degree murder charge sought admittance, but was sheltered in a prosecutor's office before being called as the state's last witness in the presentation of its direct case.

Ruth was dressed in unrelieved black. She wore a wrap-around coat trimmed in monkey fur, and her smart, close-fitting hat covered most of her dark hair and shaded her tear-wet eyes.

While his step-daughter was preparing for the ordeal of describing to the jury how Mrs. Imogene Remus was slain, Remus himself was working on the case he will present after the state has rested.

A brief interruption came when a physician bound the thumb he wounded yesterday when, as he was opening a bundle of law books, a butcher knife slipped and inflicted a cut.

JAPANESE FREIGHTER IS STILL WALLOWING IN SHALLOW WATER

Aberdeen, Wash., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—The big Japanese freighter Tensan Maru, which went aground just north of Gray's harbor yesterday was still wallowing in the shallow waters near the mouth of the Copalis river early today.

A breeches buoy was rigged up Thursday afternoon, insuring a means of rescuing the crew of 43 persons. But the Japanese captain declined to abandon his craft.

The ship is not badly damaged, despite its dangerous position and the captain felt that he could await the arrival of tugs from Seattle and Victoria which were due here early today.

NICOLLET COUNTY ANNUAL POULTRY SHOW OPENING

St. Peter, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Nicoret county's annual poultry show, with the largest number of entries in three years on display, is in full swing today. The show opened Thursday with a record-breaking crowd of visitors.

FOUND DEAD OF GAS POISONING WHERE WIFE DIED

St. Paul, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—In the same room where his wife met a similar death six weeks ago, Ferdinand Jacobovich, 60, was found dead from gas poisoning. A neighbor found Jacobovich's body when she investigated an odor of gas. The fumes were escaping from an unlighted heater.

OCTOBER, 1927 INCREASE OVER OCTOBER 1926

FINANCIAL REPORT OF RAILROAD DISCLOSES ENCOURAGING NEWS

BIG GAIN IN VOLUME OF NORTHWEST GRAIN MOVING TO MARKET

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—The Northern Pacific railroad during October, 1927, showed a gain in new operating income of $871,849 over October, 1926, the financial report of the railroad today disclosed. The total operating income for October this year was $4,568,504 as compared with $3,741,655 the same month last year.

The increase was largely the result of the big gain in the volume of northwest grain moving to market last month as compared with October, 1926, and its announcement follows on the heels of a report of a big gain in October revenue of the Soo Line, another major grain carrying railroad of the territory.

Wednesday the Soo Line reported net profits of $1,512,116 for October. Gross operating revenues of the Northern Pacific last month amounted to $11,515,225 as compared with $10,291,216 in October 1926, a gain of $1,224,009.

For the first 10 months of 1927, the net operating income of the Northern Pacific totalled $17,139,640 as compared with $19,314,329 in the corresponding period of 1926, a decline of $2,174,689.

SERVICE STATION ATTENDANT FIGHTS OFF BANDITS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—Two men who attacked a garage attendant fled amid a hail of bullets early today, leaving a truck in which they had intended to haul alcohol.

They entered the Rice street service station, and asked Art Olson the price of alcohol for their radiator. He replied that it was a dollar a gallon. One of the men said "too much," then leaped for Olson while the other seized a hammer and slugged him over the head.

Olson fought his way clear, drew a revolver, and fired. The men fled, while Olson continued to fire five shots. He said he could not tell if he hit either of his assailants, who deserted a truck in which they had driven to the service station.

RULING ON DOUBLE LIABILITY LAW

St. Paul, Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—A company that explores for iron ore and which handles mining lands is not primarily a manufacturing business and its stockholders are responsible under the double liability law.

This was decided by the supreme court today in reversing Judge C. R. Magney of Duluth, who had held that the charter of the Scott Bevier Iron Mining Co. allowed it to undertake other business than manufacturing. Peter Hicken, receiver, had brought suit against stockholders for a 50 per cent assessment, or $192,000. The supreme court today held that the company was liable under the double liability clause.

RANGE ROAD TAKES PAVING DISPUTE TO HIGHEST COURT

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 25.—(U.P.)—The Duluth and Iron Range railroad today informed the city of Duluth that the dispute over right of municipalities to assess railroad companies for paving or improving streets which abut or parallel railroad right of ways in Minnesota has been carried to the U. S. supreme court.

The state supreme court recently upheld the municipalities and the railroad notified the city that writ of error was filed in the highest court.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns
Gray, Faded Hair Dark
and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns
Gray, Faded Hair Dark
and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

EXPERT VIEWS UPON OUTSTANDING FOOTBALL STARS EXCHANGED

EAST HAS BUT 3 REPRESENTATIVES ON THIS NATIONAL ELEVEN

Sports editors of United Press newspapers throughout the country and prominent football coaches assisted in the selection of the All-American eleven of 1927. Sectional elevens were chosen by consensus of opinion and expert views upon the outstanding gridiron stars of the season were exchanged. As a result, the first, second and third All-American elevens named in the following article represent as closely as possible the country's verdict upon its football players.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 25. — Notre Dame and Southern California, whose elevens meet here tomorrow in the big intersectional game of the year, and Minnesota, whose team was unbeaten this season in western conference football, each have two representatives on the All-American football team of 1927, named today for selections of sports editors of United Press newspapers throughout the country and upon recommendation of leading coaches.

The east has but three representatives on this outstanding national eleven, and the south has one. A score of football coaches, including Knute Rockne, Lou Young, Arnold Horween, Wallace Wade, G. C. Woodruff, C. W. Spears and "Chick" Meehan, assisted the United Press sports editor by suggesting the lines the difficult task of naming the season's All-American team should follow, and agreed that gridiron play this fall and players chosen for special mention measured up fully to those of past seasons.

LARGEST CROWD INTERCOLLEGIATE FOOTBALL GATHERED

TEAMS REPRESENT BEST GAME
OF WEST AND PACIFIC

TO PERFORM TOMORROW BEFORE
111,000 PER-SONS

By CLARK B. KELSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Nov. 25. — The largest crowd that ever watched an intercollegiate football game will see southern California play Notre Dame in the Soldier's Field horse-show here tomorrow.

The teams representing the best football played in the middle west and on the Pacific coast will perform before 111,000 persons. The attendance will exceed by 1,000 that at the Army-Navy game in the same stadium last year.

Southern California was to arrive here early today, after a long train jump across the middle of the continent. The Trojans planned a short workout on Stagg field, playground of the University of Chicago Maroons.

Notre Dame's team was to arrive later in the day from South Bend. The Knute Rockne rambler have completed their training, and are ready for the game.

Notre Dame was quoted as a six to five favorite over the coast eleven, tutored by Howard Jones, mainly because Don "Beau" Williams, Trojan backfield star lies in a Los Angeles hospital with a wrenched back, sustained in the Washington State contest last Saturday.

About $50,000 has been put on the contest at 6-5 odds. Trojan backers were willing to put up even money if given a three point margin, but there were few takers.

When the Irish went through the last rehearsal yesterday, the old fiery spirit which pervaded Notre Dame's camp before the Army set-back and the Minnesota tie had returned.

Chicago today assumed a collegiate aspect. The entire Loop district including municipal buildings, stores, office buildings and hotels, was decked out in bunting—the old gold and Cardinal of the Trojans and the blue and gold of Notre Dame.

Tickets for the game have been sold out for a month, and scalpers are asking—and getting—$20 for $3 seats. There was reason to believe, however, that many who have held tickets back would put them on sale Saturday, thus flooding the market and driving the prices down.

More than 4,000 Californians will be in the stands when the game starts. The advance guard has already arrived, and Mayor George E. Cryer of Los Angeles is en route here with the main body of Trojan rooters.

The weather turned sharply cooler today. This was regarded as favorable to Notre Dame, for the Irish have been accustomed to handling the ball on snowswept fields, while the coast team has been playing in balmy weather.

Raymond, Minn., Nov. 25.—(UP)—The new Methodist church here will be dedicated Sunday. Several Minnesota pastors, who were active in the construction program, will be present at the ceremony.

THE THUNDERING HERD

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Probably it was some movie press agent who decided to designate Coach Howard Jones' Southern California eleven as "The Thundering Herd." But a look at these boys from the land of the movies leads one to hope that Knute Rockne's Irish will have a "Covered Wagon" around handy in case the "Herd" gets loose.

Southern Cal meets Notre Dame here tomorrow in the outstanding intersectional game of the year, when, for the first time, a California eleven will be seen in action away from the Pacific Coast.

From advance notices, one might have been led to believe that the Trojans were composed of "Dreary" Drury, the star, and ten rather unimportant satellites. Instead we find Southern Cal represented by a team of magnificent proportions and exceedingly versatile young men.

First, of course, there is Captain Morley Drury, ball-carrier, passer and punter extraordinary. The Trojan system is to give the ball to Drury to do what he thinks best and to flatten all opposition in the meantime so that "Dreary" may not be overtaxed in his exertions.

Some of the others who will do their stuff at Soldier Field tomorrow are: Jesse Hibbs, 190 pound tackle and just about the best on the Pacific Coast;

Nathan Barrager, formerly a backfield star, made over by Jones into a red-hot center;

Charles Boren, regular end, who has been handicapped by injuries most of the season, but a dashing wing man for all that;

Don Williams, who subs for Captain Drury at quarterback so efficiently that as far as the eye can perceive there is no loss of power in the Trojan attack;

Lloyd Thomas, 185-pound half-back; Thomas' job is chiefly to pave the way for Drury or Williams, who are carrying the ball under Southern Cal's "one man" system;

Russ Saunders, half-back, who helps Thomas at the paving job; Hershel Bonham, a rather high fullback, to whom the ball is given when the Trojans want five yards real badly.

These youngsters and a handful of others make up a football team which looks to me to be more powerful than any the Irish have met this season. This does not mean that they are likely to beat Notre Dame as the Army did. Because comparative scores mean nothing whatever. But I do think they could beat the Army.

The question of climatic conditions may enter into tomorrow's fray, for no one knows what an icy winter's day may do to the condition of the boys from Southern California.

Coach Howard Jones says, however, that he doesn't care how cold it gets just so it doesn't snow or sleet.

"If the sky's clear with a brisk breeze blowing we'll be all right," said Jones. "But a blizzard would be a handicap."

"The weather has been exceedingly mild for our games thus far this season. However, we'll take what comes, and if it's just a good, snappy, cold day, I don't think it will have any effect except to pep the boys up."

IT'S THE WHOLE STATE'S FIGHT

LET Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth beware of committing themselves to any exclusive urban joint action against Amendment Number One that will result in a sharp alignment of city against country in next year's fight over this unfair and unwise proposal to raid the Trunk Highway Fund for the benefit of feeder roads in Minnesota counties.

The St. Paul Civic Union is inviting representatives of the three cities to a meeting next week to organize an intensive opposition campaign to match the one planned by the group of rural politicians backing the Amendment. Well and good, so far as it goes, but why confine support of the opposition campaign to the larger cities? Why not invite the Amendment's opponents in all other parts of the State to join in the fight?

For it is their fight, as well as the fight of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. It is St. Cloud's fight and Brainerd's fight and Faribault's fight and Winona's fight. It is the fight of all that great lake tourist region that has been brought, and is being brought, into touch with summer visitors from all parts of America through the improvement of the Trunk Highway system. Yes, and the farmer's fight, too.

Far-sighted citizens and newspapers throughout Minnesota already see, or are coming to see, the folly and unfairness of slowing down work on the Trunk Highways, and of forcing motorists in dozens of municipalities (not just in the three larger cities) to make further heavy contribution to the building and maintenance of side-roads that they are never going to see, let alone use.

Such being the case, would it not be most unwise to organize against the Amendment on a strictly Minneapolis-St. Paul-Duluth basis? Would it not be the part of common sense to organize the fight against the amendment on a state-wide basis?

It can be taken for granted that a sharp alignment of town against country, of the three larger cities against all the rest of the State, a driving of potential allies into the enemy camp, would not materially jeopardize the success of the Amendment's opponents in this fight. The voters of the cities alone could beat it.

Even so, a strenuous city-against-country fight would inevitably leave its trail of bitterness calculated to delay vitally necessary co-operation between town and country to bring about adoption of a fair and intelligent amendment designed to relieve both rural and urban real estate from oppressive taxation for the building and maintenance of highways used chiefly by citizens other than those who pay for them.

Such an amendment has been briefly outlined in The Journal more than once in the last year. It would provide for a supplemental gas tax, entirely separate from the existing Trunk Highway tax, to be spent in the counties where collected, with an equitable division between country road work and city arterial street work.—Minneapolis Journal.

MANY CHRISTMAS TREES BEING SHIPPED

CHRISTMAS trees by the truck load are being brought into Park Rapids for shipment to distant points, says the Park Rapids Enterprise. This is the first year that Christmas trees have been shipped from Park Rapids in carload lots.

Many object to the so-called ruthless cutting of the young spruce trees for holiday purposes, but it is an open question, says the Enterprise, whether the damage resulting equals the benefit to the trees that remain. Only the uniform, perfect trees are selected for the decorative purposes, and when they are removed the trees remaining have better opportunity to grow.

We believe that the Forestry Department recommendations should be followed in all cases, so that the wooded land will not be denuded of its growth of valuable timber. Thinning out is proper if done under forestry recommendations.

ROADS are fairly good throughout the country. True, some of the feeder roads are one-rutted, but careful driving will enable any one to pass a neighbor without sticking in the snow.

SIDEURNS are coming back, but it takes years to grow a crop resembling those of the movie heroes.

Richard Barthelmess
in "The Drop Kick"

Twelve stars appear as extras in "The Drop Kick." Richard Barthelmess' latest First National picture, now showing at the Lyceum theatre. However, they're stars of the gridiron and not of the screen; members of U. S. C. and Stanford football teams.

Peter B. Kyne the Author of Gibson's "Galloping Fury"

Back in the days when Edmund R. (Hoot) Gibson was a little boy just learning the four R's on his father's ranch he dreamed of actually being the hero of a Peter B. Kyne story.

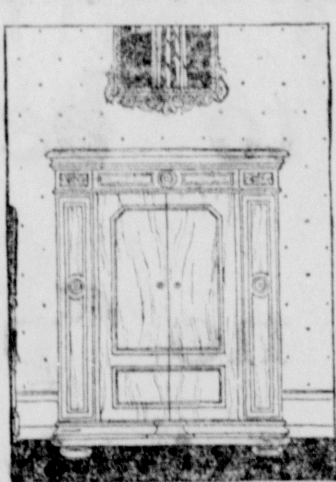

In those days, the four R's were readin' rithin' rithmetic and ridin'. Despite all these adolescent dreams of being a hero, Hoot probably never had the faintest notion that he would ever enact the leading role in a story written by his favorite author.

But Hoot Gibson, the great Western star, will be at the Lyceum Saturday in "Galloping Fury," a Western Special from Kyne's "The Tidy Toreador," which recently appeared in a big national magazine.

Stopped in 15 Minutes with Thoxine

Most coughing is caused by an irritated, inflamed throat or bronchial tubes which cough syrups and patent medicines do not touch. But a famous physician's prescription recently discovered called Thoxine goes direct to the cause, relieves the inflamed membranes and stops the cough almost instantly. One swallow does the work, and the remarkable thing about it is that it contains no dope, chloroform or other harmful drugs. Pleasant tasting. Safe for children. Once used the whole family will rely on it. 35c, 60c and $1.00. Sold by Skague Drug Co. and all good drug stores. —Advt.

Speeding!

WHEN Solite is your fuel, your car speeds along with smooth and steady sureness. The engine purrs away with a quiet hum of power.

There's a thrill to "stepping on it"—sensing the instant answer of swifter speed! There's a thrill in the feeling of power at your command—all the power you need and more besides!

Solite is a remarkable gasoline because—for all its lightness and speed—it does not sacrifice power. It drives the piston the full stroke under power.

Solite gives you speed that is sure—certain satisfaction! For only a few cents more per gallon. You'll say it's worth it.

IT'S THE WHOLE STATE'S FIGHT

LET Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth beware of committing themselves to any exclusive urban joint action against Amendment Number One that will result in a sharp alignment of city against country in next year's fight over this unfair and unwise proposal to raid the Trunk Highway Fund for the benefit of feeder roads in Minnesota counties.

The St. Paul Civic Union is inviting representatives of the three cities to a meeting next week to organize an intensive opposition campaign to match the one planned by the group of rural politicians backing the Amendment. Well and good, so far as it goes, but why confine support of the opposition campaign to the larger cities? Why not invite the Amendment's opponents in all other parts of the State to join in the fight?

For it is their fight, as well as the fight of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. It is St. Cloud's fight and Brainerd's fight and Faribault's fight and Winona's fight. It is the fight of all that great lake tourist region that has been brought, and is being brought, into touch with summer visitors from all parts of America through the improvement of the Trunk Highway system. Yes, and the farmer's fight, too.

Far-sighted citizens and newspapers throughout Minnesota already see, or are coming to see, the folly and unfairness of slowing down work on the Trunk Highways, and of forcing motorists in dozens of municipalities (not just in the three larger cities) to make further heavy contribution to the building and maintenance of side-roads that they are never going to see, let alone use.

Such being the case, would it not be most unwise to organize against the Amendment on a strictly Minneapolis-St. Paul-Duluth basis? Would it not be the part of common sense to organize the fight against the amendment on a state-wide basis?

It can be taken for granted that a sharp alignment of town against country, of the three larger cities against all the rest of the State, a driving of potential allies into the enemy camp, would not materially jeopardize the success of the Amendment's opponents in this fight. The voters of the cities alone could beat it.

Even so, a strenuous city-against-country fight would inevitably leave its trail of bitterness calculated to delay vitally necessary co-operation between town and country to bring about adoption of a fair and intelligent amendment designed to relieve both rural and urban real estate from oppressive taxation for the building and maintenance of highways used chiefly by citizens other than those who pay for them.

Such an amendment has been briefly outlined in The Journal more than once in the last year. It would provide for a supplemental gas tax, entirely separate from the existing Trunk Highway tax, to be spent in the counties where collected, with an equitable division between country road work and city arterial street work.—Minneapolis Journal.

MANY CHRISTMAS TREES BEING SHIPPED

CHRISTMAS trees by the truck load are being brought into Park Rapids for shipment to distant points, says the Park Rapids Enterprise. This is the first year that Christmas trees have been shipped from Park Rapids in carload lots.

Many object to the so-called ruthless cutting of the young spruce trees for holiday purposes, but it is an open question, says the Enterprise, whether the damage resulting equals the benefit to the trees that remain. Only the uniform, perfect trees are selected for the decorative purposes, and when they are removed the trees remaining have better opportunity to grow.

We believe that the Forestry Department recommendations should be followed in all cases, so that the wooded land will not be denuded of its growth of valuable timber. Thinning out is proper if done under forestry recommendations.

ROADS are fairly good throughout the country. True, some of the feeder roads are one-rutted, but careful driving will enable any one to pass a neighbor without sticking in the snow.

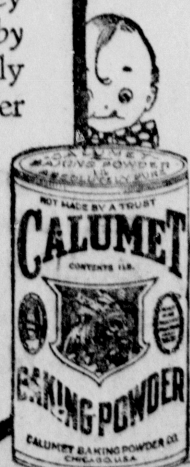

SIDEBURNS are coming back, but it takes years to grow a crop resembling those of the movie heroes.

Richard Barthelmess
in "The Drop Kick"

Twelve stars appear as extras in "The Drop Kick," Richard Barthelmess' latest First National picture, now showing at the Lyceum theatre. However, they're stars of the gridiron and not of the screen; members of U. S. C. and Stanford football teams.

Peter B. Kyne the Author of Gibson's "Galloping Fury"

Back in the days when Edmund R. (Hoot) Gibson was a little boy just learning the four R's on his father's ranch he dreamed of actually being the hero of a Peter B. Kyne story.

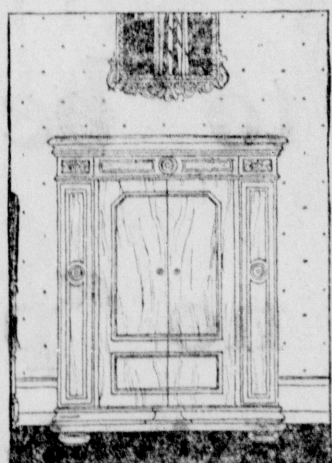

In those days, the four R's were readin' ritin', 'rithmetic and ridin'. Despite all these adolescent dreams of being a hero, Hoot probably never had the faintest notion that he would ever enact the leading role in a story written by his favorite author.

But Hoot Gibson, the great Western star, will be at the Lyceum Saturday in "Galloping Fury," a Western Spectacular from Kyne's "The Tidy Toreador," which recently appeared in a big national magazine.

Night Coughs Quickly Relieved

Stopped in 15 Minutes with Thoxine

Most coughing is caused by an irritated, inflamed throat or bronchial tubes which cough syrups and patent medicines do not touch. But a famous physician's prescription recently discovered called Thoxine goes direct to the cause, relieves the inflamed membranes and stops the cough almost instantly. One swallow does the work, and the remarkable thing about it is that it contains no dope, chloroform or other harmful drugs. Pleasant tasting. Safe for children. Once used the whole family will rely on it. 35c, 60c and $1.00. Sold by Skauge Drug Co. and all good drug stores. —Advt.

PARK VAUDEVILLE CLOSES TOMORROW

Will be Last Performance of Winter Season, Manager W. R. Hiller Announces
FIVE SPECIAL ACTS

Stan Mitchell and Flo Eckert, Clever Dance Team, Are Booked as Headliners

Saturday vaudeville performances will close for the winter this week at the Park theatre, W. R. Hiller, local manager of P. and R. theatres announced today.

The closing performances tomorrow will consist of five special acts and a feature picture.

Stan Mitchell and Flo Eckert, a clever dance team, late features of the big success, "The Clinging Vine" which starred Peggy Wood offer an act which they bill as "portraits of dance, song and music." The dance numbers include a Spanish, a Russian and a pirate number which the team created for the "Love Pirates." Virginia Graham assists at the piano and also contributes a song in a soprano voice.

Nolly Tate, tumbling clown, and his four trained dogs will appear in a comedy act. Earl Kern, considered the peer of all tramp comedians since the late Nat Wills, three men singers, and Rosini, notable magician, will complete the vaudeville presentation.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

ing the holiday recess at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Templeton, 612 Fourth Avenue N. E.

Floyd Nash of St. Paul and Darrell Nash of Brainerd are expected to spend Thanksgiving and the week end with their father, Charles Nash, and brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vincent.—Little Falls Daily Transcript.

W. P. Tyrholm and A. A. Weidenman left for the Twin City Ford plant this morning. It is admitted by Mr. Tyrholm that the biggest program for announcing a new car ever planned in the automobile industry will break very soon.

Miss Ruth Louise Beise left for Minneapolis, where she will attend the wedding of Miss Dorothy Kelly and Charles A. Lamb, which will take place Saturday afternoon. Miss Kelly was a classmate of Miss Beise at Briar Cliff Manor at New York.

J. A. Loney arrived in Brainerd last evening and this morning reopened the barber shop under the First National bank which his brother, L. R. Loney, opened on November 1, but temporarily closed on account of being called back to Eveleth.

Rushworth Encampment No. 191 O. O. F. will hold regular meeting Saturday, November 25, in Odd Fellows hall. Election of officers will take place. C. Bruhn, Chief Patriarch.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Olson and son, Darwyn, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Glade of Alexandria were Thanksgiving guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wyatt, 515 North Bluff. In the afternoon an informal at home was held for the members of the J. C. Penney store in honor of Mr. Olson, who was formerly employed in the local store.

RECEIVES HIP INJURY

E. L. Grimstad, 924 Grove street, Brainerd received hip injuries three days ago when a tree fell on him while cutting in the woods, it was reported here today.

Mr. Grimstad received treatment at the St. Joseph's hospital.

West Oak Lawn School

Dr. J. A. Thabes will administer anti-toxin to the school children, free of charge, at the West Oak Lawn school Monday, November 28. All children must have parents consent.

SISTERS, COMPANIONS MANY YEARS, DIED TOGETHER AT MINNEAPOLIS

GENEVA, GRACE AND SUSAN DRUM ASPHYXIAED, BODIES FOUND BY POLICE

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 25. (UP)—Three elderly spinster, sisters, were found accidentally asphyxiated in their rooms here today. Companions for many years during their declining years, the three died together.

They are Geneva Drum, 80, Grace, 65, and Susan, 56.

Police found gas leaking from a defective gas plate, they said.

Miss Geneva was found seated in a chair, and her sisters were found lying face downward on the floor nearby.

GLAD HE TOOK D. B. C. COURSE

Studying business from textbooks, alone, looked to N. L. Peterson, too much like taking a correspondence course in swimming. So he enrolled at Dakota Business College, Fargo; had ACTUAL BUSINESS training (copyrighted — unobtainable elsewhere); found a position waiting at a Santa Barbara (Calif.) bank the day after he graduated.

One of two pet cats in the room was dead. The other, lying near a door under which air passed, was alive.

The sisters apparently spent Thanksgiving Day together in their rooms, and are believed to have been overcome late in the evening. The room indicated that preparations were being made to retire.

Friends saw in the triple death what almost might be called a blessing, for the trio had lived together so long they were closely dependent on each other, in a state where death of one would have been a serious blow to the others.

The bodies were found after Nora Branley, who lives on the first floor of the house, went to call them, and smelled gas. She summoned a neighbor, and they broke into the house.

It is expected that a triple funeral will be arranged for the sisters.

A plume of steam has waved its threat of power for thousands of years from the brow of old Vesuvius. But now enslaved, steam provides mankind with its smoothest, mightiest power. And now, in its new high-compression motor, Hudson gives the smooth, elastic power that only steam has heretofore delivered.

Monarchs of Power

How Hudson's new invention gives High Compression Performance with any gasoline

Through the great companion invention to the Super-Six principle, the new Hudson high-compression motor gives the torque, smoothness and power of the steam engine.

In all previous types of automobile motors a high percentage of the power of the fuels is lost in heat thrown away in the exhaust and cooling waters.

The new Hudson motor gives the snap and performance of the high-compression type without sacrifice of flexibility and smoothness. Ordinary gasoline gives the performance sought, in other types, through the use of special and costly fuels.

Oil dilution is prevented. Greater power, speed and fuel economy are obtained. Every phase of performance is brilliantly better. These two Hudson inventions give a performance and reliability supremacy that are immediately and continuously apparent whether you drive your Hudson a city block or a hundred thousand miles.

PARK VAUDEVILLE CLOSES TOMORROW

Will be Last Performance of Winter Season, Manager W. R. Hiller Announces
FIVE SPECIAL ACTS

Stan Mitchell and Flo Eckert, Clever Dance Team, Are Booked as Headliners

Saturday vaudeville performances will close for the winter this week at the Park theatre, W. R. Hiller, local manager of P. and R. theatres announced today.

The closing performances tomorrow will consist of five special acts and a feature picture.
Stan Mitchell and Flo Eckert, a clever dance team, late features of the big success, "The Clinging Vine," which starred Peggy Wood offer an act which they bill as "portraits of dance, song and music." The dance numbers include a Spanish, a Russian and a pirate number which the team created for the "Love Pirates." Virginia Graham assists at the piano and also contributes a song in a soprano voice.

Nolly Tate, tumbling clown, and his four trained dogs will appear in a comedy act. Earl Kern, considered the peer of all tramp comedians since the late Nat Wills, three men singers, and Rosini, notable magician, will complete the vaudeville presentation.

CROSBY DIPHTHERIA EPIDEMIC QUELLED

County Nurse Assists Health Officer
and School Nurse in Giving
Anti-Toxin

CULTURES ARE TAKEN

Make Application to State Hospital
for Child Who Was Severely
Burned Last Fall

An application has been made through the county nurse department to the State Hospital for a four year old child who was burned severely last fall while playing with matches, according to the monthly report for October, according to Miss Thora Ingrebritson, county nurse.

The report also shows that an epidemic of diphtheria developed in Crosby but was taken into control. Assistance was rendered by Miss Ingrebritson to the Crosby health officer and school nurse in giving anti-toxin and taking cultures. Dr. W. P. Greene of the State Board of Health made two visits and arrangements are being made for several rural communities to have the toxin-anti-toxin treatment given to the children.

The report continues:
Total number visits to homes, 52.
Total number of visits, 73.

Of this number there were three nursing care; 35 instruction and demonstration which include visits to tuberculosis patients, crippled children, blind people and school children. Fourteen investigations visits including diphtheria, whooping cough, measles and one gonorrhea were made. Twenty-one miscellaneous visits were made.

School Work

Sixteen visits were made to school rooms. Two hundred and forty-one children were inspected, one hundred three individually and one hundred thirty-eight in class room inspection. Four children were excluded because of symptoms of chicken pox and scabies. Five special communicable disease visits were made to schools.

Tuberculosis Clinics

Two tuberculosis clinics were held with an attendance of eleven, five old and six new cases.

Special Cases

Arrangements were made with a local hospital for a girl to have an operation for goiter and the operation was performed. Because of lack of funds, the doctor donated his services and the hospital will permit the patient to work at the hospital, thus paying for her care.

Nursing care was given to a needy post-partum case, who was taken to the hospital as an emergency case.

Two blind cases were taken to the University Hospital. One case was an old man with a cataract. He was kept under observation for several days, but as no improvement could be assured by operation, he was returned to his home. Application has been made for an allowance for him from the State Department for the Blind. The other case was also a man suffering from trachoma. He was also taken to the University Hospital and is showing some improvement.

LONEY'S BARBER SHOP

We wish to announce to the public the opening of the Barber Shop in the First National Bank Building.

This Barber Shop has served the public for so many years it is hardly necessary to say that under this new management the public will again be well served and the best of workmen at all times employed, specializing in ladies' hair cutting in addition to all other first class barber service.

We solicit the patronage of the public and promise that our work will be of the highest class of workmanship.

Respectfully,

J. A. LONEY,
148tf Manager.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

GERALD McGIVERN RITES TOMORROW

Was One of the First to Enlist as a Volunteer in the World War

Funeral rites of Gerald McGivern, aged 26, single, who died Wednesday evening from heart failure will be conducted tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock from the St. Francis church, Rev. Father Hogan officiating. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. McGivern had been ailing for the past five years. He was one of the first to enlist as a volunteer in the World war. He was sent to the Great Lakes training station in April, 1917 and was in the navy a couple months when he received a medical discharge.

The young man was born in Erie, Pa., coming to Brainerd in 1909 with his parents. He was educated in the local schools. Mr. McGivern was also a member of the local post of the American Legion.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter McGivern, 417 South 8th street and two sisters, Anna, a nurse at Detroit, Mich., who is returning home today and Florence, of Brainerd.

Officer Secures Enough From Broken

A liquor transporter's cunning ruse was foiled when stacked up against the speed of Officer Erick Graff in gathering up evidence Wednesday afternoon when he resulted in the conviction of Lloyd Shipman in municipal court this morning on the charge of transportation of liquor. Shipman pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $50 and costs.

The following battle of wits and speed was staged on South Sixth street Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, as stated by Officer Graff:

"I noticed Shipman walking down the sidewalk with a bundle under his arm. I asked him what was in the bundle. Without replying, he threw the package on the sidewalk. There was a crash of glass and liquor flying but I managed to secure enough of the contents of the bottle to constitute evidence."

Shipman is a resident of Little Falls.

WILL MORTGAGE CAR TO PAY FINE

I. H. Aikins Found Guilty on Charge
of Maintaining a
Nuisance

FINED $100 AND COSTS

Mrs. Aikins Testifies That Increase in Trade Started Her
to Selling

Mrs. I. H. Aikins who admits she takes a drink of moonshine once in a while but never gets drunk, who purchased a large number of bottles from neighbor's children to provide their families with food, and who believes that she and her husband were "framed" by two young men who left a gallon of liquor at their residence provided evidence at the trial this morning of her husband.

The husband, I. H. Aikins was found guilty in municipal court of maintaining a nuisance and, was fined $100 and costs by Judge J. H. Warner. He requested the judge for time so that he might mortgage his car to pay the fine. Unless he can raise it he must spend the next 90 days in jail.

The city police raided the residence of Aikins in West Brainerd two hours after two young men had left a gallon of moonshine there. Although the coincidence of time had no bearing on the police raid, Mrs. Aikins was sure this morning that the young men were trying to get something on her and her husband.

Mrs. Aikins admitted in her testimony that she had been selling beer. She said that she had started in the game by first making beer for her and her husband but later made more when friends came in to call on them. When questioned what price she received for the beer she said she got what others got, 25 cents a quart.

The police raided the residence of Aikins Tuesday night. There they found, they stated, in one room, one gallon of liquor, 200 bottles of beer, two eight gallon jars of beer in the making and 500 empty bottles.

The police seized some of the bottles for evidence and destroyed the others.

Two Men Arraigned

Earl Peterson, and D. F. Wright, the two men alleged to have taken the liquor to Aikins' house, were arraigned in municipal court this afternoon on charges of transportation. They pleaded not guilty and their trial is set for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Bail was set at $500 each.

Peterson and Wright are reported to live near Round Lake.

DISCUSS REVIVAL OF COUNTY FAIR

Hilding Swanson, Chairman of Fair
Committee Makes Report to
Chamber of Commerce

E. G. ROTH GIVES TALK

Members Will Pay Visit to The
Northwest Paper Company
Next Monday Afternoon

A very interesting regular meeting of the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce occurred Wednesday evening.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Allbright, secretary, Robert Nichol acted as secretary pro tem.

Following action at a previous meeting when the revival of the county fair at Brainerd was discussed, Chairman Hilding Swanson of the County Fair Committee made a partial report. An enthusiastic discussion again followed and everyone present seemed heartily in favor of such a movement.

The committee is expected to make a complete report at the next meeting on December 14, 1927.

County Agricultural Agent E. G. Roth gave an excellent and very interesting account of the effort now under way to organize a cow testing association in Crow Wing county.

Mr. Roth stated that there are now about one hundred cow testing associations operating in Minnesota. That the average per cow production of butter fat for the whole state is 170 pounds, that the average for Crow Wing county is 160 pounds, while the average for members of the cow testing associations is 273 pounds.

At the average price of butter, this means an added average production of approximately $50.00 per cow, at an annual cost per farmer of less than $25.00 for membership in the association. Where the dairyman has several cows, the advantage to him and through his prosperity, the advantage to the community, is a matter of great importance.

Where it is possible for the dairyman to secure personal investigation of his herd conditions, and expert advice as to how to improve these conditions on his particular farm at so nominal an annual cost, it seems obvious that it should be done.

CROSBY DIPHTHERIA EPIDEMIC QUELLED

County Nurse Assists Health Officer
and School Nurse in Giving
Anti-Toxin

CULTURES ARE TAKEN

Make Application to State Hospital
for Child Who Was Severely
Burned Last Fall

An application has been made through the county nurse department to the State Hospital for a four year old child who was burned severely last fall while playing with matches, according to the monthly report for October, according to Miss Thora Ingrebritson, county nurse.

The report also shows that an epidemic of diphtheria developed in Crosby but was taken into control. Assistance was rendered by Miss Ingrebritson to the Crosby health officer and school nurse in giving anti-toxin and taking cultures. Dr. W. P. Greene of the State Board of Health made two visits and arrangements are being made for several rural communities to have the toxin-anti-toxin treatment given to the children.

The report continues:
Total number visits to homes, 52.
Total number of visits, 73.
Of this number there were three nursing care; 35 instruction and demonstration which include visits to tuberculosis patients, crippled children, blind people and school children. Fourteen investigations visits including diphtheria, whooping cough, measles and one gonorrhea were made. Twenty-one miscellaneous visits were made.

School Work

Sixteen visits were made to school rooms. Two hundred and forty-one children were inspected, one hundred three individually and one hundred thirty-eight in class room inspection. Four children were excluded because of symptoms of chicken pox and scabies. Five special communicable disease visits were made to schools.

Tuberculosis Clinics

Two tuberculosis clinics were held with an attendance of eleven, five old and six new cases.

Special Cases

Arrangements were made with a local hospital for a girl to have an operation for goiter and the operation was performed. Because of lack of funds, the doctor donated his services and the hospital will permit the patient to work at the hospital, thus paying for her care.

Nursing care was given to a needy post-partum case, who was taken to the hospital as an emergency case.

Two blind cases were taken to the University Hospital. One case was an old man with a cataract. He was kept under observation for several days, but as no improvement could be assured by operation, he was returned to his home. Application has been made for an allowance for him from the State Department for the Blind. The other case was also a man suffering from trachoma. He was also taken to the University Hospital and is showing some improvement.

Manager.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Evidence

A liquor transporter's cunning ruse asked when stacked up against the speed of Officer Erick Graff in gathering up evidence Wednesday afternoon when he resulted in the conviction of Lloyd Shipman in municipal court this morning on the charge of transportation of liquor. Shipman pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $50 and costs.

The following battle of wits and speed was staged on South Sixth street Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, as stated by Officer Graff:

"I noticed Shipman walking down the sidewalk with a bundle under his arm. I asked him what was in the bundle. Without replying, he threw the package on the sidewalk. There was a crash of glass and liquor flying but I managed to secure enough of the contents of the bottle to constitute evidence."

Shipman is a resident of Little Falls.

WILL MORTGAGE CAR TO PAY FINE

I. H. Aikins Found Guilty on Charge
of Maintaining a
Nuisance

FINED $100 AND COSTS

Mrs. Aikins Testifies That Increase
in Trade Started Her
to Selling

Mrs. I. H. Aikins who admits she takes a drink of moonshine once in a while but never gets drunk, who purchased a large number of bottles from neighbor's children to provide their families with food, and who believes that she and her husband were "framed" by two young men who left a gallon of liquor at their residence provided evidence at the trial this morning of her husband.

The husband, I. H. Aikins was found guilty in municipal court of maintaining a nuisance and, was fined $100 and costs by Judge J. H. Warner. He requested the judge for time so that he might mortgage his car to pay the fine. Unless he can raise it he must spend the next 90 days in jail.

The city police raided the residence of Aikins in West Brainerd two hours after two young men had left a gallon of moonshine there. Although the coincidence of time had no bearing on the police raid, Mrs. Aikins was sure this morning that the young men were trying to get something on her and her husband.

Mrs. Aikins admitted in her testimony that she had been selling beer. She said that she had started in the game by first making beer for her and her husband but later made more when friends came in to call on them. When questioned what price she received for the beer she said she got what others got, 25 cents a quart.

The police raided the residence of Aikins Tuesday night. There they found, they stated, in one room, one gallon of liquor, 200 bottles of beer, two eight gallon jars of beer in the making and 500 empty bottles.

The police seized some of the bottles for evidence and destroyed the others.

Two Men Arraigned

Earl Peterson, and D. F. Wright, the two men alleged to have taken the liquor to Aikins' house, were arraigned in municipal court this afternoon on charges of transportation. They were not guilty and their trial for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Bail was set at $500 each.

Peterson and Wright are reported to live near Round Lake.

DISCUSS REVIVAL OF COUNTY FAIR

Hilding Swanson, Chairman of Fair
Committee Makes Report to
Chamber of Commerce

E. G. ROTH GIVES TALK

Members Will Pay Visit to The
Northwest Paper Company
Next Monday Afternoon

A very interesting regular meeting of the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce occurred Wednesday evening. Owing to the illness of Mrs. Albright, secretary, Robert Nichol acted as secretary pro tem.

Following action at a previous meeting when the revival of the county fair at Brainerd was discussed, Chairman Hilding Swanson of the County Fair Committee made a partial report. An enthusiastic discussion again followed and everyone present seemed heartily in favor of such a movement.

The committee is expected to make a complete report at the next meeting on December 14, 1927.

County Agricultural Agent E. G. Roth gave an excellent and very interesting account of the effort now under way to organize a cow testing association in Crow Wing county.

Mr. Roth stated that there are now about one hundred cow testing associations operating in Minnesota. That the average per cow production of butter fat for the whole state is 170 pounds, that the average for Crow Wing county is 160 pounds, while the average for members of the cow testing associations is 271 pounds.

At the average price of butter, this means an added average production of approximately $50.00 per cow, at an annual cost per farmer of less than $25.00 for membership in the association. Where the dairyman has several cows, the advantage to him and through his prosperity, the advantage to the community, is a matter of great importance.

Where it is possible for the dairyman to secure personal investigation of his herd conditions, and expert advice as to how to improve these conditions on his particular farm at so nominal an annual cost, it seems obvious that it should be done.

The moral backing of the membership of the Chamber was asked, unanimously voted, and Mr. Roth thanked for his clear explanation of the matter.

Any person desiring to know in detail just what a cow testing association is and does, is urged to get promptly in touch with the county agent at the court house.

The matter of a proposed garment factory was considered, and referred to the proper standing committee.

It was proposed that the Chamber pay a visit to the Northwest Paper Company mill. On motion it was decided to make such visit, leaving by auto from the Chamber of Commerce at 1:30 P. M. next Monday, the details to be in charge of the secretary. It is hoped that all who can will join in this trip to one of Brainerd's largest industries.

Mrs. Irma Cam Hartley Entertains
Mrs. Irma Cam Hartley entertained at a Thanksgiving dinner Thursday. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hartley and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Spencer of Minneapolis.

SYNOPSIS

Hurricane Haley, skipper of the schooner "Sea Sprite," kidnaps Polly, the dancer from "The Riverside," thinking that she is the cause of him losing all his money while in the back room of the place. He treats her very harshly but Polly seems to thrive on the sea, and gradually becomes inured to his abuse. Haley hardly speaks to her, but Brady, his mate, wishes to become more familiar and for that reason begins to breed mutiny amongst the crew. One day he sees Polly up in the rigging and this sight overcomes his judgement so that he attempts to thrash Hurricane. Polly watches the fight hardly knowing whom she wants to win.

Brady bored in like a hated bull, but Haley is still the Hurricane, that that earn his name, and a furious tempest of sledgehammer rights sent Brady reeling against the rail, blood streaming from his mouth and nose. As Brady fell his hand came in contact with an iron belaying pin, and when Hurricane rushed in to deliver the knockout punch, he swung the club in a wild swing at the skipper's head. Hurricane threw up his arm to save his head, and the iron pin smashed his upper arm. Brady, a smile on his face rushed in but with the last ounce of his strength behind the blow, Hurricane crashed him on the point of the pin, and he fell like a log in the scuppers. Hurricane rushed over to him and stood, arm back, waiting for him to rise, but Brady had had enough, glance told Bronson what was the

and would never test his strength with Hurricane again.

Her eyes wide with fright, Hurricane and his arm which dangled, horribly by his side. For a reason, which she hardly knew herself, she rushed over to him, and lifted his arm. The pain of the sudden movement took the color from his cheeks, the bone was broken well above the elbow. "Carry that arm to the fore-castle, where he belongs," he said, stirring the prostrate Brady with his foot, then with a look at the crew as if to challenge any of them that felt a desire to take the mate's part, he turned on his heel and walked aft. Polly followed him, and as Hurricane noticed her he looked down and asked, in his usual sneering voice, "Sorry Brady didn't win, ain't you?"

"Can't you ever think a decent thought about anyone," Polly snapped, her face red with anger. "You know I didn't want him to win. I didn't care who won," and Polly was perilously near to tears. Hurricane looked at her as if he would read her thoughts then he snarled.

"Go forward and bring Bronson here—and make it snappy."

Polly only too pleased to do anything to get out of the way of Hurricane's doubting gaze, hurried away. For the first Polly knew that she loved Hurricane, and that nothing he could do, could for one moment, dull the pain that tore her heart. She wondered dully why it was that he was so cruel to her. Why that he would not recognize her emotions that she knew were filling his heart. She knew that he loved her, and that some day if she were lucky he would admit it, but she failed to see the reason for the abuse and cruelty that he heaped on her now. As for Hurricane, he knew that whenever he saw Polly he had an insane desire to say something, something that would settle things, and put an end to this intolerable tension. Not for one minute though, would he admit that he did not hate her more than woman was ever hated.

As she hurried away, Hurricane looked after her. He was puzzled, there had been a look of real concern on her face, yet if Brady had won she would have been free from his taunts and jeers. Women are funny creatures by thought, nor for one minute, did he appreciate the fact that Brady and his kind were now repulsive to the girl who throughout her life had seen nothing but bradys.

The sea had robbed Polly of her people. Never again would she be able to take her place on the Riverside stage and jest and jeer with the mob. They would disgust her now, for she had found that there were cleaner things in life.

Things the sea-gulls stood for things she thought about when driving spray from an article comber whipped her face. There was no place for Brady in Polly's new scheme of things.

The men were standing around the mate in the fore-castle. Brady with blood still streaming from his nose and mouth, was whipped. He lay in his bunk and merely groaned. All his fight was gone, and the man, always eager to follow a show of initiative, huddled around, waiting to be told to move. Limey, his face wreathed in a smile, for which there was no apparent reason, stepped up to her.

"Blimey, but he sure got a 'ell of a tanlin'!" he grinned. Polly looked at him sternly, and the little cookney made a brave effort to look solemn. It was beyond him, and he broke into further chuckles.

"Blimey, wot a mess. He ain't a goin' to eat nothing but soup for a 'ell of a time, an' the funny thing is, we ain't got no soup."

Polly had to smile, for the little cookney, evidently hated Brady, and gloried in his downfall. Besides it made one more person they could rely upon if Brady made trouble later.

"Limey, tell Bronson I want him. Will you?" she asked.

Soon the two returned, and telling Limey to stay and watch the crew, Bronson and the girl went back to Hurricane. He was still sitting in the same chair, with his head buried on his right arm, the left hanging loose by his side. One glance told Bronson what was the matter, and rising to the occasion, he showed plainly, that Jimmy Bronson, had not always been a fore-castle hand on sailing schooners.

"Where did he get you sir?" he asked. "Above the elbow, an' for God's sake get a move on, an' do something. Tear the coat off, and you'll find a book of surgical instructions on top of that cupboard."

Polly got the book, while Bronson unbuttoned his coat. The slightest touch was agony to Hurricane, but setting his teeth he gritted.

"Get a knife an' cut the damn thing off, cut it I say, I'm no damn girl."

With hands gentle as they could be Bronson cut away his sleeve and bared the arm, with the queer little hollow above the elbow showed where the bone was broken. Bronson leant over and touched the arm, the skipper winced, but looked down and in the most casual of voices asked, "Just clean break, isn't it Bronson?"

"That's all I guess, but it's goin' to hurt like hell when we pull it straight."

"Guess I can stand it. Take hold, an' give it a tug."

Bronson picked up the almost nerveless fingers, and exerted a weak pressure. Hurricane groaned, then snarled at him:

"Pull—damn you—pull. Do you think you are doctoring a sick girl?"

He set his teeth as Bronson braced his feet against the table, took his wrist in both of his hands and gave the arm a quick steady pull. Beads of sweat stood out on Hurricane's forehead, but gradually his face grew less tense, and he turned to Bronson.

"Good work, Bronson. You're man from now on. Take the watch on deck."

Bronson looked at him, then with something almost like a sob he hurried out. A man either had to love or hate Hurricane. There was no middle way. He was either one thing or another.

Polly had stolen away as Bronson was pulling on the broken arm. It seemed to be hurting her more than it did Hurricane, and she was dying to scream, and let out some of the motive that was welling within her. He was hurt, and all of the insults and hardships were forgotten as she wondered how she could help him. A fresh wind was blowing and as she reached her little nest in the bow of the schooner, and as she stood there watching the leaden waves split into crests of foamy white before the prow of the Sea Sprite, her thoughts carried her far away from the hustle of her old life to a quiet lay life spent on open seas, with warm friendly winds and love and—

SYNOPSIS

Hurricane Haley, skipper of the "Sea Sprite," kidnaps Polly, the dancer from "The Elks Club," thinking that she is the cause of him losing all his money while in the back room of the place. He treats her very harshly but Polly seems to thrive on the sea, and gradually becomes inured to his abuse. Haley hardly speaks to her, but Brady, his mate, wishes to become more familiar and for that reason begins to breed mutiny amongst the crew. One day he sees Polly up in the rigging and this sight overcomes his judgement so that he attempts to thrash Hurricane. Polly watches the fight hardily, knowing whom she wants to win.

Brady bored in like a bated bull, but Haley is still the Hurricane that that earned his name, and a furious tempest of sledgehammer rights sent Brady reeling against the rail, blood streaming from his mouth and nose. As Brady fell his hand came in contact with an iron belaying pin, and when Hurricane rushed in to deliver the knockout punch, he swung the club in a wild swing at the skipper's head.

Hurricane threw up his arm to save his head, and the iron pin smashed his upper arm. Brady, a smile on his face rushed in but with the last ounce of his strength behind the blow, Hurricane crashed him on the point of the chin, and he fell like a log in the scuppers. Hurricane rushed over to him and stood, arm back, waiting for him to rise, but Brady had had enough, and would never test his strength with Hurricane again.

"Guess I can stand it. Take hold and tug."

Her eyes wide with fright, watched Hurricane and his arm which dangled horribly by his side. For a reason, which she hardly knew herself, she rushed over to him and lifted his arm. The pain of the sudden movement took the color from his cheeks, the bone was broken well above the elbow.

"Carry that swine to the fo'castle, where he belongs," he said, stirring the prostrate Brady with his foot, then with a look at the crew as if to challenge any of them that felt a desire to take the mate's part, he turned on his heel and walked aft. Polly followed him, and as Hurricane noticed her he looked down and asked, in his usual sneering voice,

"Sorry Brady didn't win, ain't you?"

"Can't you ever think a decent thought about anyone?" Polly snapped, her face red with anger. "You know I didn't want him to win. I didn't care who won, and Polly was perilously near to tears.

Hurricane looked at her as if he would read her thoughts then he snapped.

"Go forward and bring Bronson here—and make it snappy."

Polly only too pleased to do anything to get out of the way of Hurricane's doubting gaze, hurried away. For the first time Polly knew that she loved Hurricane, and that nothing he could do, could for one moment, dull the pain that tore her heart.

She wondered dully why it was that he was so cruel to her. Why that he would not recognize the emotions that she knew were filling his heart. She knew that he loved her, and that some day if she were lucky he would admit it, but she failed to see the reason for the abuse and cruelty that he heaped on her now. As for Hurricane, he knew that whenever he saw Polly he had an insane desire to say something, something that would settle things, and put an end to this intolerable tension. Not for one minute though, would he admit that he did not hate her more than woman was ever hated.

As she hurried away, Hurricane looked after her. He was puzzled, there had been a look of real concern on her face, yet if Brady had won she would have been free from his taunts and jeers. Women are funny creatures by thought, nor for one minute, did he appreciate the fact that Brady and his kind were now repulsive to the girl who throughout her life had seen nothing but brads.

The sea had robbed Polly of her people. Never again would she be able to take her place on the Riverside stage and jest and jeer with the mob. They would disgust her now, for she had found that there were cleaner things in life.

matter, and rising to the occasion, he showed plainly, that Jimmy Bronson, had not always been a fore-castle hand on sailing schooners.

"Where did he get you str?" he asked.

"Above the elbow, an' for God's sake get a move on, an' do something. Tear the coat off, and you'll find a book of surgical instructions on top of that cupboard."

Polly got the book, while Bronson unbuttoned his coat. The slightest touch was agony to him, but setting his teeth he gritted.

"Get a knife an' cut the damn thing off, cut it I say, I'm no damn girl."

With hands gentle as they could be Bronson cut away his sleeve and bared the arm, with the queer little hollow above the elbow showed where the bone was broken. Bronson leant over and touched the arm, the skipper winced, but looked down and in the most casual of voices asked,

"Just a clean break, isn't it Bronson?"

"That's all I guess, but it's goin' to hurt like hell when we pull it straight."

"Guess I can stand it. Take hold, an' give it a tug."

Bronson picked up the almost nerveless fingers, and exerted a weak pressure. Hurricane groaned, then snapped at him:

"Pull—damn you—pull. Do you think you are doctoring a sick girl?"

He set his teeth as Bronson braced his feet against the table, took his wrist in both of his hands and gave the arm a quick steady pull. Beads of sweat stood out on Hurricane's forehead, but gradually his face grew less tense, and he turned to Bronson.

"Good work, Bronson. You're mate from now on. Take the watch on deck."

Bronson looked at him, then with something almost like a sob he hurried out. A man either had to love or hate Hurricane. There was no middle way. He was either one thing or another.

Polly had stolen away as Bronson was pulling on the broken arm. It seemed to be hurting her more than it did Hurricane, and she was dying to scream, and let out some of the emotion that was welling within her. He was hurt, and all of the insults and hardships were forgotten as she wondered how she could help him. A fresh wind was blowing and as she reached her little nest in the bow of the schooner, and as she stood there watching the leaden waves split into crests of foamy white before the prow of the Sea Sprite, her thoughts carried her far away from the hustle of her old life to a quiet lazy life spent on open seas, with warm friendly winds and love and—
